within the Party has been none too secure since his removal as Foreign Minister in the spring of 1950. His disappearance, also reported in the press, coincides with the alleged escape and arrest of important Party and Government officials during the past week, as well as with other current purges and rumors of purges.

Austrian officials are concerned over the possibility of new Communist disorders in late February and early March, when economic conditions are expected to become acute. Indications of trouble are seen in Communist-inspired demands for wage boosts and in the continuous training of Communist strongarm squads in the Soviet zone for use in the forcible seizure of industrial installations and public utilities. Vice Chancellor Schaerf, particularly alarmed, feels that full employment must be achieved to insure a firm socialist grip on labor. Chancellor Figl, more sanguine, agrees that reduction of unemployment is essential to minimize the effect of Communist-inspired disorders. He believes, however, that the Austrian security force is capable of controlling the situation.
the October hampered by workers con munist riot enhanced. h	Comment: The possibility of such Commu- s has been anticipated for some months. During disturbances when police effectiveness was Seviet interference, efforts by Socialist tributed substantially to the break-up of Com- s. Communist capabilities would be considerably communist if the Socialists lost control of the labor rank and file.
